United Press Telegram.
BENTLEYVILLE, Feb. 8.—Trapped in the local postoffice last night, two crookmen shot their way to liberty through the ranks of a lawless sleighting party, the town marshal and local policemen who had surrounded the building.

The only weapon in the hands of the attackers was owned by one of the policemen, and it was only a little .22 calibre affair that made a poor impression when compared with the .35 calibre revolver used by the robbers.

The men were pinned in the building for fifteen minutes, during which time a score of shots were exchanged on both sides. None was injured, although the bullets flew thick and fast through the ranks of the crowd.

The yeggmens were discovered at work by Mrs. W. F. Richardson, who lives across the road from the postoffice. She was awakened by a sound of a muffled explosion and noticed the telephone operator, who called the local hotel, where a lawless sleighting party were eating a late meal.

Leaving the ten women in the party at the postoffice, the men surrounded the postoffice, endeavoring to make prisoners of the crookmen.

The front door of the building was open, and through it the men were able to see the intruders at work. An effort was made to enter, but the robbers became aware of their presence, and immediately opened fire. Their aim was poor for the lead pellets went wild, missing the men standing crowded in the doorway.

Soon after the sleighting party arrived on the scene, the town marshal and members of the police force came up and took charge of the attack. At the late hour it was impossible to procure weapons in the neighborhood, and the attacking force was at a disadvantage.

The intruders finally escaped through a rear door, leaving their tools, blankets and explosives on the floor in front of the open door. It is believed that the robbers secured nothing for their trouble. A investigation of the contents of the safe this morning, accounted for everything that was placed there last night, before the postoffice was closed.

PETITION HITS SNAG*Slow Progress Made in Effort to Omit Chief of Police from List.

The petition being circulated to omit Chief of Police George Hetzel from office struck a snag in its rounds, according to current rumor this morning, and it is believed that those in charge of the document have given up hope of obtaining a sufficient number of signatures to make it carry weight.

When the paper was first circulated by friends of the former policeman it is understood that it received the support of many businessmen, who sympathized with the "strickers." Later, however, when friends of Chief Hetzel were approached, an effort was being made to get his seal, they began to get active, with the result that when citizens were approached for their support, which was in charge of the petition, a cold shoulder was turned to the ex-cops' friends. Lack of support has compelled them to withdraw the petition.

Chief Hetzel is not worrying over anything that may transpire on the enemy's side of the fence. He is planning in faith of safety to the knowledge that he has followed the course which the considerable right throughout the police ranks.

Two Votes on Question.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 8.—An exciting meeting of Town Councilmen was held last night over the question whether the borough should pay the costs imposed upon policemen who prosecuted automobile speeders to the extent of having the bills ignored by the Grand Jury. The costs aggregated $240. Charles Goldsmith, Homer Rumbaut and William Smith of Mount Pleasant; Dr. L. T. Gilbert and Thomas Diklin of Scottsdale were defendants in the action. The policemen had two bills returned but the court declared that the actions should have been started before a justice of the peace. Upon a second prosecution the bills were ignored.

Burgess, T. Collins and Policemen Earl Herbert and Robert Smith went into Council to collect these costs, claiming they had prosecuted the automobile drivers at the instance of Councilmen. Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Feb. 8.—Habeas corpus proceedings were heard in court today in behalf of Mrs. Catherine Kerr of Connelville to recover possession of an infant child, 11 months old, which the mother charges is being held in possession of her husband's mother, who refuses to give it up.

Attorney Elias Goodenough represented Mrs. Kerr before Judge Van Swearingen, Attorney E. M. Matthews appearing for A. H. Kerr, the husband, and Mrs. Edith Kerr, his mother.

According to the younger Mrs. Kerr, the child was taken away last Monday night, while she was attending a ball at the suggestion and with the consent of her husband, who agreed to stay at home and mind the baby.

When she returned, the younger Mrs. Kerr asserted, the child and its father were missing. She declared it was not until she was informed by her mother-in-law, who refused to give it up.

Mrs. Catherine Kerr stated that she and her husband lived happily together until the death of his mother, E. M. Kerr, since that time she declared that Mrs. Edith Kerr has sought to induce Albert Kerr to make his home with her, and last Monday night he agreed to do so.

BRICK WORKS FOR MILL RUN
MAY BE BUILT BY STICKEL*Tract of Clay Is Being Developed on the Cox Farm by Connelville Mill Men.

Mill Run may have a brick works in the near future as a result of the development being made on the Cox farm. P. W. Stickel, who recently purchased the farm from Florence Cox, has a force of men opening the clay vein. There is a six foot vein of soft clay, together with an eleven foot vein of flint clay. It is proposed to ship this clay to market in the near future.

The presence of a vein of coal on the farm will make it possible to conduct a brickyard at moderate cost and it is said that Mr. Stickel has such a move in contemplation.

In addition to the clay and coal, Stickel is operating a limestone quarry along the Indian Creek valley, supplying the material to farmers for fertilizing purposes. The farmers have found this a more satisfactory fertilizer than the commercial brand they have been using in past years.

A deal was closed last night by which the Arcade theatre, on Main street, which has been owned and operated by Mrs. K. M. Wallace for the past several years, was sold to Paul Bolger and Manager M. W. Neff of the Colonial Theatre.

The new owners will take possession of the property next Monday. Mr. Neff will act as manager. It is planned to introduce the new Kinematograph pictures.

The building will be renovated as soon as possible. The interior of the amusement place will be redecorated and a new front erected. The theatre will be closed for two weeks while the work is in progress.

In 1907 the late B. P. Wallace furnished a storehouse in his large Main street building with 300 seats, and erected a stage in the rear of the room. He secured a film service and operated showing pictures there until in 1909, when the business increased to such a large volume that he found it necessary to enlarge it. An addition was made to the rear of the building for 370 additional seats, and a balcony that will seat nearly one hundred persons was erected.

After the death of Mr. Wallace, Wallace has conducted it. Yesterday's transaction has given the new owners a five year lease on the building, and it is understood that they have an option of renewing the lease for an additional term.

KNOCK-OUT DROPS

Walks to Grocery Store and Faints.*AWAKES TO FIND HIS ROLL GONE*State Constables are Working on the Case; Young Man Had Planned to Cash Now Before Starting Out.

That a thief who wanted his bank roll administered knockout drops to Frank Warner while he was drinking in a saloon last night is the supposition of Sergeant Thomas McLaughlin, of the State Constabulary, who found the man lying in a stupor on the floor of a Pittsburgh restaurant grocery store into which he had wandered.

Warner remembers little of what occurred. He recalls entering a barroom and drinking a glass of whiskey, after which, he says, everything went dark.

Leaving the saloon he groped his way up Pittsburgh street, entered a store and asked permission to use the telephone. The proprietor noticed nothing unusual in his appearance, but as he turned to point out the location of the phone, he saw the stranger fall.

The physician in attendance is of the opinion that the man's condition was not due to intoxication, and the surgeon is of the same mind.

Warner's brain was still befogged this morning, but he thinks he had considerable money before being overcome. Until a few days ago he was employed in the power house of the West Penn. Upon leaving that company's employ he was paid for two weeks' work. He is unable to remember what became of that money.

When searched at the City Hall, the contents of his pockets amounted to an even two dollars.

Warner is a stranger in Connelville, having resided here less than a month. On the promise of a good business opportunity he came here from one of the western states, where he has a wife and child living. When he arrived here, he says the proposition was not as represented. He procured employment at the West Penn power plant and after working there a short time decided to return to his home. He intended doing so shortly, but he now finds himself in a condition where he is compelled to seek employment to earn sufficient money to pay his current expenses.

Although he appears to be 35 years of age, Warner claims to be only 19 years old.

MINE SAFETY IS DISCUSSED BY EXPERTS IN PITTSBURGH

Memorandum of Escaping Gas into Coal Mines is the Principal Topic of Discussion.

Coal operators, mining engineers, State mining inspectors, State geologists and oil and gas men held a conference yesterday in the rooms of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, to discuss the menace of the escape of gas from gas and oil wells into coal mines, a number of explosions resulting in loss of life having occurred recently. The conference developed the necessity of a uniform law in solving these problems and it is the intention to formulate suggestions to be presented to all State Legislatures.

G. S. Rice of the Bureau of Mines, discussed the gas escape topic at length. O. P. Hood, the chief mechanical engineer of the bureau, and A. F. Heston, one of the oil experts, said it seemed to be the general opinion that some form of inspection is necessary in the States and that each State should have a chief inspector of gas and oil wells.

Among those attending the conference were E. J. Taylor, chief engineer Pittsburgh Coal Company; W. C. Neill, attorney Manufacturers Light & Heat Company; J. W. DeWolf, Urban, Ill., Director State Geological Survey; Richard H. Rice, Denver, Pa., State geologist; R. Davis on Hall, New York City, associate editor Coal Age; A. P. Cameron, Irwin, General Superintendent Westmoreland Coal Company; A. C. Heston, Chief Engineer Pittsburgh Coal Company; J. A. Macpherson, St. Louis, President Missouri Coal Corporation, representing Illinois Coal Operators' Association; L. B. Moore, Fairmont, W. Va., Chief Engineer Consolidation Coal Company; John W. Hollett, coal operator, and George S. Rice, mining engineer; O. P. Hood, Chief Mechanical Engineer; H. M. Wilson, engineer in charge, and Irving C. ## The most economical of all Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is more economical than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of genuine baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or advertised and offered at a low price. Such are mixtures of unwholesome ingredients. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States the sale of alum baking powder is prohibited by law. Alum is a corrosive mineral acid, and physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label upon baking powders must show the ingredients.

DOCTORS INDORSE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE FOR THE HAIR

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the profession and man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burroughs Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic. "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore Duncan, Ark., writes of his experience. "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry scaly material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before but thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

CODIFYING THE LAW.

The proposition to have the laws of Pennsylvania codified by the State Librarian is one of the most sensible suggestions that has been made at the present session of the Legislature. It might be well to have some competent lawyers assist in the work, but this wisdom not to say the necessity of the codification will not be disputed by any intelligent lawmaker.

One of the most serious objections to the laws of Pennsylvania lies in the fact that no adequate provision has ever been made for their promulgation. In fact, the only manner in which they are published to the people is by means of a very limited edition of the session laws, which is not printed until some months after the adjournment of the Legislature and the going into effect of its laws, and which is then circulated only among judges, justices and lawyers.

For thirty years the State Editorial Association has sought to remedy this inquiry by securing the passage of a bill directing the publication in the newspapers of the acts, either in whole or in part; in the full text, the title or by a syllabus; in short, in any form that would give public notice of their nature and put the interested citizen at least upon inquiry. In proof of the fact that its proposition was not merely one of graft, the association several times has published its session laws at a rate that barely covered the cost. This proposition brought down the opposition of the city press of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, with the single exception of the Philadelphia Press, which recognized the justice of the demand for publicity and the public spirit back of the law-rate offer of the country papers composing the association.

The codification of the laws is perhaps the first great step to their proper promulgation. One of the principal causes of litigation in Pennsylvania is ignorance of the law, and this ignorance is not confined to the Common People. It extends to the bar and even to the bench, and it exists largely because the laws are frequently a chaotic jumble of contradiction, due to the fact that the majority of lawmakers are uninformed of the law as it stands when they undertake to change it.

The codification of the laws has hitherto been a work of private enterprise which has been performed rather intermittently. The present codification of the code now in general use was prepared in 1894 and has a supplement which brings it up to 1897.

Not only should the laws be codified, but those bearing upon prominent subject should be revised and unified. To the school code, for example, should be added a borough code. The corporation laws, the tax laws, the labor laws and various other classes of legislation are now under investigation with a view to embodying each subject in a separate act.

When this is done, the work of codification will have been far upon its way.

"We are sitting here in the back room of a one-cent newspaper office in Uniontown. We have just finished a perusal of the dailies of Connelville, Pittsburg, Philadelphia and New York," says the editor of the Uniontown Herald to the effect of the confession is good for the soul, and a careful perusal of the city papers is instructive to a country editor.

The Harburg harpoon is out for the local sharks.

"The Town That Does It" is to be latro's slogan, but the Bulletin says its contemporaries first by stating that the town does not do the Turkey Trot. The town probably wants to be progressive, not arrested.

The Rock-feller probe was arrested by a stronger power than that of politics.

Connellsville never needed a police patrol worse than it did during the late policeman's strike, but the need is still apparent.

The damage done in the Wilpen wreck is not yet computed.

The Western Maryland's industrial agent does not want the Chamber of Commerce to lose sight of the fact that Connelville is an electrical power center, and that this fact is not one of the least of its commercial advantages.

The jailbird who deals in strong stocks through a bootlegger broker ought to lose his investment.

The proposed law to encourage the establishment of a chain of country work houses, for the purpose of providing plenty of useful work for prisoners, will do much to minimize crime in Pennsylvania. The undersirable will drop Pennsylvania from their route of travel.

Undesirable citizens sometimes come home to roost, and sometimes the law declares that they are entitled a place on the perch.

South Connelville citizens naturally prefer sewers to sumps.

The triennial coal assessments of Westmoreland county indicate the varying values of coal in an adjacent to the Connelville coke region.

Cheap coal is easiest to carry but hardest to move, and vice versa.

The man who put a counterfeit bill in the church collection, and thus tried to put one over on the Lord, made a miserable failure of the job.

Canonsburg's bootleg whiskey makes men do murder.

Considering their size and importance, no coal operations in the country have received more free advertising at the hands of a loyal press than those of the Indian Creek Valley.

Connellsville region coke trade conditions are being reflected in the outside regions, and the further the reflection the more powerful it becomes.

Parliamentary procedure in South Connelville's Council in very democratic and outspoken.

South Connelville's Council is not up-to-date. It should have appointed a probing committee to investigate the charge that the borough records have been "doctored."

The most beautiful display of these we have ever shown. However, we do not ask you to take our opinion for it as more than one lady has been heard to remark that they were the prettiest we have ever had and we think you will say the same when once you see them. Entirely new patterns and very dainty. They appeal to the woman with artistic taste in furnishing her rooms and carrying out her color effects. Quite popular for curtains, over draperies, box or trunk coverings, cushions, furniture coverings, fancy work bags, slipper bags, bed covers, comforts, etc., all marked at prices that the outlay will be hardly noticeable. We want you to see them.

If You Value The Power of Money Buy Now.

The Union Supply Company are now offering, for men, boys and children, some very great bargains in the clothing departments. At some of our stores, there are yet fair stocks of overcoats for men and boys.

The mild winter weather checked the demand, but we want to sell them, and even if you carry them over until next season, the price we are offering them at, would be an inducement for you to buy. These are suits for men in heavy weights and medium weights, new, first-class goods the most fashionable the market produces, but our stocks are too heavy and we are going to close them out. Prices are cut to a point which makes it a great inducement for you to buy. There are quantities of boy's and children's clothing selling at half price. Now you want these goods; we want to sell them, and prefer to give them to you at reduced price, rather than carry them over. Our regular clothing prices are low, but with these special cuts, they are simply great bargains.

INDIAN CREEK.

SYRUP OF FIGS IS BEST FOR A CHILD

Cleanses It's Little Stomach, Torpid Liver and Constipated Bowels.

Mother! look at the tongue! see if it is coated. If your child is listless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold. It means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are clogged up with waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours the foul, decaying, constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of delicious figs, senna and other natural ingredients, and it is so pleasant that they rarely know its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and purgative needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, reliable, and safe old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.—Advertisement.

LUNGS MEASURE 2,000 FEET

Good and Bad Germs in Big Conflict.

The Bad Germs Will Win if You Don't Hurry and Take Bear's Emulsion.

In a healthy man of average size the lungs have an inner lining surface of two thousand feet, all the surface is covered with living cells which are able to kill invading germs. There is no ray in the man that is in the best of health. If his lungs are sore, he has had a lingering cough, sharp pains through his lungs, a run-down system. These all tend to weaken a man; the living cells on the lung lining begin to die. The next day, as soon as the days before, he breathes into his lungs some of the tuberculous germs that fill the air. At the very spot where these cells have died there is nothing to resist the action of these germs. He has put off taking something to build up his system and strengthen the weak places. Now is the time to act. Bear's Emulsion will build up these weak spots and tone up that run-down system.

There was, this afternoon, a certain gray-haired, full-bodied man, of full beard and rather portly body. He was speaking with President Standley of St. Louis, who also by mere chance happened to be in town. To them presently came the former general traffic manager of Mr. Standley's own road, Ackerman, also present by mere accident. Two or three others, moreover, by mere accident, joined them, figures which were familiar at the long table in the New York headquarters. They looked at one another frankly, and laughed without much reservation.

"Well," said Ackerman, after a time, "let's sit down and have a little pow-wow—informally, you know."

The gray-haired man grinned pleasantly again and said nothing, but drew up a chair.

"Of course, you know," said Standley, as he seated himself, "that our dissatisfied friend, Van, is here in town today."

The full-bearded man nodded, and an instant later jerked his head toward the door. "He's here in the club, too," said he, and smiled. "Just happened in, I suppose." Indeed, as they turned to look they saw advancing, talking animatedly, a rather slender, youngish man of brown eyes and pointed beard; none less than the disgraced officer who had long ago been so summarily dismissed by John Rawn, president of the International Power Company.

"Haven't he got the nose for news, though?" commented Standley admiringly. "New, who told him there was anything doing?"

"He didn't need to have anybody tell him," growled Ackerman. "He can take care of himself. And by the way, I'm half inclined to think that he was the lucky one to get out the way he did, and when he did."

"Yes, he's lucky," said Standley gravely. He turned to see the vast round belly of the gray-bearded man heaving in silent pain. The railway magnate obviously was amused.

"I don't know," remarked Ackerman suddenly. "Others, eh?"

"Well, boys, why not admit it?" rejoined the older man. "We all know the facts. We all know why we're here. As you said, Ack, let's talk a little informal meeting, and talk over what we had better do."

"How much did you sell?" demanded Standley casually.

"Twenty thousand last week. You would double that."

"Yes, I'm looking out, no use denying that. You don't need to talk this thing—it looks like."

"Of course," Van's buying it," said Standley, nodding toward the slender figure of the ex-director. "First time I ever knew him to go out for revenge. It doesn't very often pay."

"Well, I can't figure it out," ventured Ackerman. "The stock won't do him any more good than it does us. He can't get control over that old bunch of head Raws—I mean our respected president—anyhow, any more than we can. He's sitting tight, with the papers in his box. I admit that I let go a little, because I figured it was time we were doing something better than sit per cent with that stock, and all Rawn has done is to make one explanation on top of another. He can't keep on putting that across with me, anyhow. But he can sit there, as I say, with the control in his hands, looking at those old pictures of the Lady of the Lightnings, which he had engraved as our trademark."

"He's awfully good on paper," spoke up one. "Not that I blame him, either. I hate to sell my stock, because I like the looks of our engraved goddess so much."

"There's most always a lady standing around somewhere, with the lightning in her hands. And the gray-bearded man solemnly contended that at one another again suggestively, but no one spoke more definite words than that.

"Well, we've had high-sounding talk put up to us about long enough," commented Ackerman, at length. "I was one of the first to go in for this, and I believe in it yet, but I don't want this thing with Rawn in control. Why look at him—he was just a clerk when he came to us, and here he's putting on more side than any other man in the town. He's taken advantage of his situation to play the market in and out, all the time, which couldn't have done it if he hadn't been for friends like us. He squeezed us into backing him—after we gave him that first little forer in Rubber, and some Oil—that hadn't cost us anything and didn't look worth anything. In return he's handed us promises and explanations and hot air, and nothing else. I've just got an idea that there's a man-eater nigger somewhere around this woodpile. For me, I prefer being hung as a little lamb rather than as a full-blown goat. Yes, I let go a little International—to Van—I'll admit. Time enough to get back into the game when we've put Rawn out!"

Standley nodded slowly. "That's a good deal the way I felt about it," he said. "It rises me to see the air that fellow puts on. I remember him when he didn't have two suits of hand-me-down clothes to his name, and now he seems to have a hundred, all done by the best tailors in New York. He used to tie his drawers with white tape strings, and now he wears specially shaped silks. Where'd he get it? You talk about the Keeley motor—this thing has got it beat a mile for mystery. And we fellows have been standing for that! That is, unless we can stand from under, somehow."

"Yes, seemingly," ventured the last speaker. "But how is that somehow? There isn't any market for International."

The gray-bearded man laughed jubilantly at this. "Have you found that out?"

"Yes, I certainly have found it out. Of course, the market has been Van's. But he won't take on over a certain amount. He wants to break the control, of course. But he's going to wait until he gets up to the point and then do something quick. He's not going to hold our bag for us—oh, no! Not him!"

"Well, I've a suspicion," said the older man finally, "that that secret we've been after has been in the hands of our superintendent for a long time."

"Why didn't Rawn tell us, then?" demanded one of his companions.

"No, Rawn hasn't told us out. At least I don't think so."

"Who has, then?"

"I don't know. The young man who made the wheels go for us whenever Rawn wanted him to—he's the real key to this situation, if I'm a good guesser. There's your confidant, and you can locate him somewhere in this particular woodpile, or I'm no judge."

"Rawn's pretty well spread out in the general market," quite irrelevantly suggested Standley.

"I should say he was!" growled Ackerman. "He's been in on all the good things in the last two or three years. He must have made millions—I don't know how much."

"In the general market—not International, of course. He's got all his holdings in that. He has been spending money, though," Standley nodded his head.

"For instance, on the Lady of the Lightnings," suggested Ackerman, grinning amiably.

"Yes, on his young wife, and his new house, and his boats, and his automobiles, and all the regular things. He can't have done it out of International dividends, that's sure."

The slender man with pointed beard came up pleasantly, his eyes twinkling. "Well, my fellow sports in the department," he said, "What's the good word this morning?"

"Sit down," said the gray-bearded man. "We know why you're here, and why you've been hanging around here for the last six months. It's foolish of you, son, to be out for revenge—nothing in that!"

"I'm not after revenge," smiled the other, his eyes still twinkling. "I've made my peace!"

"Yes," commented Ackerman. "The friendship of some of the gladiators is surely a wonderful thing! Rawn hates you, and you hate Rawn. Don't your ears hum?"

"No, my heart!" He laid a hand on that organ with mock gravity.

"What could you do with the Lady of the Lightnings, Van?" asked Standley discreetly.

"Nothing, absolutely nothing."

"Haven't she any social instincts?"

"Plenty, but all gratified; that's the trouble. There isn't anything those people want that they haven't got. No, I must say his position is pretty strong."

"But it's not imprudent, Standley," said the gray-bearded man, stopping the twiddling of his fingers above his round-punched body. "Now, look here, we're all friends together, when it comes to that. You belong with us a lot more than you do with that Jaeger from the country. Of course, you split with us, got mad, took your dolls and all that sort of thing—we're all used to that—and we all sat tight because it looked good. It looked better than it does now. So, we're friends again."

"Of course," nodded the slight man. "I understand that."

"Sure you do! Now, it's plain that when it comes to being on the inside, you're there as an ex-director just as much as we are as real directors—maybe more so, for all I know."

"Maybe more, yes, that's so," smiled the slender man, his brown eyes twinkling yet more.

"How much more, then?"

"Why, a whole lot more!"

"Do you know?"

"I know what I've learned for myself and by myself. Gentlemen, on the table! Play the game! I did. I've had some of those college professors at work for me—they're the people that first got us located, anyhow. Rawn, or rather his son-in-law, got his first notion from his own professor in his college."

AT THE THEATRES.

THE SOISSON.

"ALMA" TONIGHT.

The remarkable musical comedy, "Alma, Where Do You Live?" which played all last season at Weber's theatre, New York, will be seen at the Soisson theatre this afternoon and tonight. The music of "Alma" is regarded as the most musical kind of the season, and has been played so continuously that already it is familiar to the ear. The particular musical hit is the "Alma" waltz, and its stirring strains have won for the composer a position second to none. Miss Callan enjoys the reputation of being one of the handsomest women on the American stage. It was this as much as her singing and acting ability that caused the manager to engage her to succeed the statue-like Kitty Gordon in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" the sensational comedy which has just secured a hit at Joe Weber's theatre, New York.

"HIT AND JEFF."

D. Franklin Argyle, the diminutive comedian who plays "Jeff" in Gus Hill's production of "Bull Fisher's" comedy, "Jeff," which is playing at the Globe theatre, Boston, during the remarkable run of the play of 14 weeks in one of his daily walks to the theatre to play the "Jeff" comedy. Stopping for a moment he inquired of the custodian of the place if he might be allowed to go inside and look around. "Yes," remarked the old man with a humorous twinkle in his eyes, "but it's at your own risk," carefully sizing up the 12 inches of vigorous manhood, "Risk," inquired Jeff, "what risk is there?"

"Well," the old man answered, "the graves are old and some of the marble slabs have wide cracks in them," once more looking "Jeff" over, "and you might fall in." The stout man could no longer restrain his merriment at his own joke. "Jeff" really hit home promptly to his rescue. "Who is buried here?" he asked.

"Well, there's John Hancock," Paul Revere and a number of the heroes of the Revolution," answered the custodian. "Well in that case," said Jeff, "I think I'll take a chance. It is no happen to drop through one of the cracks, I'll fall into good company."

"THE ROSE MAID" COMING.

With every minute of the season, said to be as refreshing as a springtime itself, "The Rose Maid" opera, boasting a more elaborate production than any of the Venetian musicals, is to be staged at the Soisson theatre, Tuesday, February 12. Since its first performance in New York, where it met with a great success, this musical work, with its pretty romance of the gay Duke of Barchester and a little rose girl has proven fairly irresistible to music loving theatre-goers.

Special features every day at the New Lyric theatre—Advt.

ECZEMA ON BODY AND LIMBS

Small Watery Pimples, Body Covered with Sores. Continual Scratching Kept Him Awake. Suffering Severe. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

413 Washington St., Connelville, Pa.—"At the age of eighteen or twenty I had a spot of eczema not larger than a silver dollar on my body. As time this would burn and itch intensely, then for a time I would not feel it at all. It would break out again spreading over the body and limbs. The first appearance of the trouble was in small watery pimples. The skin looked red and swollen. It appeared on my face and hands at times. My body was covered with sores that never could heal on account of my continual scratching keeping me awake all nights. It was just impossible to sleep. I can never forget how worn out I was on account of loss of sleep. My suffering was severe from the itching and raking of the skin, the blood oozing out in many places. "I tried some every remedy I heard of, and at last that relieved the itching for a while but the trouble still remained. Then I went and got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Resolvent, commenced using them the same day and commenced getting better right away. I got another cake of Cuticura Soap, box of Cuticura Ointment and bottle of Resolvent and I was cured." (Signed) Austin E. Cable, Apr. 10, 1912.

Four-in-Hand Ties That Could Sell for 50c go at 3 for 50c

Those prices are printed big and bold for every man to see. It's a big event—the biggest we ever planned—the biggest Connelville ever shared in. Notice that 75c is the price on one lot of shirts: those shirts are better every way than the shirts in anybody's 79c or 89c sale. And the 98c shirts will give any $1.50 shirt a run

1,100 Shirts
Different Sleeve Lengths and Sizes 14 to 17

"There's no reason for running, but you should waste no time in getting there," the Irishman told a man whose house had burned down.

The men who are here when the doors open at 8 o'clock Saturday morning will get first pick of their sizes in the Banner Shirt Sale. The shirts are put out on tables in the Furnishing Store and in the Shoe Store, grouped for easy and quick choosing.

Stop on your way to work, make selection, and your purchase will be home by dinner-time.

75c SHIRTS —as we said, these are far better than any shirts we saw about town at 75c—in a sale—and they are better than any shirts we ever offered under $1.00 in a sale. Men might not know, but women will, that 34x44 percale is about the height of quality that goes into any shirt under $2.00. At $1.00 the weave is coarser than at the higher rate. These shirts are made of 34x44 percale, smooth, close, fine and strong. Colors are fast. Sizes are accurate. Coat-style models with attached laundered cuffs and collar band. Black - and - white; white with colored stripes; colored grounds; light and dark tones.	98c SHIRTS of madras, figured and striped; white and black stripes; white and colored effects. —of percale, black - and - white; white with colored stripes. —all white, soft shirts. —shirts with self-colored, detached collars. —soft or laundered cuffs —soft or pleated fronts. In every respect these shirts at 98c would sell at other times at full value—$1.50. Materials are fine, close and strong. Colors are fast and stylish. All open entirely down the front—coat style, and all sizes are accurate and ample. Men will buy them by sixes and twelves because it's just 52 cents saved on every one. Sizes 14 to 17.
